Notice to the Farmers.

You will need your corn next summer so do not throw it away now by continuing to feed it to your hogs after they are in condition to kill. If the weather is too warm for you to cure the meat at home, the Madison Electric Power Company is prepared to cure it for you regardless of the weather. Their cold storage plant is now in perfect operation, and they are ready to take care of 100,000 pounds of Madison county meat and cure it perfectly in the short time of 30 days, and at the small cost of one cent per pound. For the price of a few spoiled hams you can insure the saving of your entire meat crop and be relieved of all fear or loss as well as save feed.
Kill your hogs whenever they are in condition, cut the meat up, salt it well and bring to us the same day as killed. If the weather is warm. If the weather is cold, after the meat has been salted and put in bulk for five or six hours, it may be spread out and left until next day before bringing to us. Do not cut the chine bone off the ham as it is better with it on and will cure as well in cold storage.
Any further information will be cheerfully given, by yours truly,
